

Discover the Master in EU-MED African Relations and Cooperation Policies (EUMEDA)

Build your career in European, Mediterranean and African Affairs with EUMEDA!

The Second-Level University Master's Programme in EU-MED African Relations and Cooperation Policies (EUMEDA) offers an English-taught, blended programme, combining online learning with in-person classes in Parma (Italy), internship opportunities and international networking with academics, experts and professionals.

Designed for graduates and young professionals, EUMEDA provides an interdisciplinary understanding of the increasingly important relationship between Europe, the Mediterranean and Africa, exploring key issues such as international cooperation, development, migration and mobility, sustainability, energy, security, environment and global health.

With its strong practical dimension, EUMEDA enables students to gain concrete skills and professional experience, preparing them for international careers in European and international institutions, NGOs, public administrations, international organisations and the private sector.

EU-MEDA is co-designed and co-organised with the Department of Economics and Management of the University of Parma.

Applications for the 2026/27 edition are open until 4 December 2026.
